Dr. John Lightfoot, ViceChancellor of Cambridge University, improved this dating by fixing the week of creation for October 18th to 24th, so that Sunday, the 25th, became the first day of hard earned rest. But later scholars, of equal authority, have placed the date variously at 4710 B.C. and 5872 B.C. So, after all, the doctors of divinity disagree and we may, without offense, consider Some Scientific Versions In a rear storeroom of the American Museum of Natural History in New York, I was one day privileged to examine a collection of banded clays carefully preserved with glycerine in long metal pans. From them, Dr. Chester A. Reeds and other scientists were reconstructing the history of the New Jersey, New York and New England areas at the close of the Great Ice Age, long before the coming of the white man. They already had a complete year by year record covering thousands of years, indicating a date for the melting away of the ice sheet perhaps more than ten thousand years ago, but so far not definitely connected with modern dates. One of them, Dr. E. Antevs, was, however, busily gathering samples of clay from Canada for that very purpose. He was trying to fix definite dates for the various stages of melting and retreat of the ice sheet which once covered nearly all Canada and much of the northern United States. His hopes of success rested upon a previous success elsewhere. He had assisted Baron Gerard De Geer,...
