Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Common Order of Morning Worship: Embodied in Five Graded Services Based on a Common Order With a View to Proximate Uniformity of Worship The services here presented are the result of serious study and thought, on the subject of public worship, begun eighteen years ago, in the course of which I have given attention to numerous ancient liturgies of the Catholic Church and have examined all the leading Protestant liturgies and many of the books of worship put forth by pastors of non-liturgical churches. By these investigations I have been confirmed in the conviction, that the present movement, in these last churches, towards liturgical forms will not reach its purpose by the imitation of any existing liturgy. Its aim can only be reached by means of a teachable spirit, which merges individual prejudices in a reverent appreciation of all that the church has prized in the past, and in a readiness to adopt suggestions from her best experiences, while it is free to mould the elements of worship, which come to us from manifold sources, into a liturgy which expresses the deepest and richest experiences of Protestant Christianity in its life of today. These services are the outcome of such studies and of this conviction. In their fullest form they present, as nearly as may be, my Ideal of protestant worship, so far as that ideal is attainable under present conditions. The presentation of five orders is prompted by the need of adaption of services to churches in differing stages of liturgical advancement. They have been prepared on a single basis, or a common order, believed to represent the natural progress of thought and...
