Act was signed into law, I believe it is fair to look at the progress and the practical effects of the law. Although simply stated, the Food Quality Protection Act of 1996 amended Federal pesticide and food and drug laws by directing the EPA to apply improved standards to evaluate the safety of pesticides that are used on food crops including fruits, vegetables and grain, the last 6 years have seen both the U. S. EPA and the U. S. Department of Agriculture working hard to meet the rigorous statutory deadlines and struggling to develop new scientific models and methods for assessing pesticide risks. The Food Quality Protection Act requires that EPA and USDA re-evaluate the maximum safe level for pesticide residues on food or tolerances by taking into consideration sensitivities of infants and children and by using the best available information to evaluate other important factors. In many respects, this process is scientifically complex and is often difficult for those of us who are non-scientists to follow. Although my twin...
