Army War College, 2007 OCLC Number: (OCoLC)83599509 Subject: Islamic fundamentalism -- Political aspects. Excerpt: . . . interview that the ultimate goal of his group is: a) a Muslim super state limited to Southeast Asia; b) a transnational caliphate encompassing the entire Muslim world; and or, c) a world in which there will be no non-Muslims at all. With this sort of strategic flexibility - some would argue strategic incoherence - it is difficult, although not impossible, to explicate a rational strategy held by leading members of the important terror organizations. The widespread repetition of major themes and stated goals over time, actions taken that are within the parameters of and seemingly inspired by these political grand strategic claims, and the existence of similar ideas in all sorts of captured intelligence materials worldwide which have demonstrated clear communications and connections among the groups, all strongly suggest that, varied utopian goals notwithstanding, there is a coherent political grand strategy that can be understood as animating and loosely coordinating extreme Islamist terrorism of this...
