The corporal and mental make brave elastic force; and hence recover all and more than the place they lose by bad repulse. The mind, afraid to think aloud, rushes from the goad of suppression, over the lines of moderation. It is a day of violent persecution, and hence provoked desperation: in such a day honesty were the best policy; but honesty is no article in the tablets of power: if sometime admitted, it is for uses of ambition. Honesty and policy are as distinct in the state as faith and reason in the church. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
